ORGANIZATION: Coast Guard First District Staff has three main divisions...

Prevention Division protects the public, our ports, the environment and U.S. economic interests through the prevention and mitigation of maritime incidents. The Prevention Division is broken down into four branches, Inspections and Investigations including Maritime Transportation Security Act (MTSU) compliance, Fishing vessel Safety and Recreational Boating Safety, Waterways Management including aids to navigation and domestic ice breaking, Coast Guard Auxiliary and Bridges. All focusing on the prevention of deaths, injuries and property damage associated with maritime transportation, fishing and recreational boating.

Response Division protects the public, our ports, the environment and U.S. economic interests by responding to and mitigating maritime incidents. Response Division consists of three branches. The incident Management Branch is responsible for Search and Rescue, Pollution Response, All-Hazards Preparedness and oversight of the District's Command Center. The Enforcement Branch includes fisheries enforcement and response to maritime homeland security threats. The Intelligence Branch includes oversight of the District's Field Intelligence Support Teams (FIST's). Together, the Response Division focuses on command and control of District One operational assets to accomplish incident response, crisis management and security enforcement.

Operations and Resource Planning. The Operations and Resource Planning staff coordinates annual planning and resource management for all District operations requiring cutter, boats, aircraft and / or teams of personnel, including those in support of ports and waterways coastal security, maritime law enforcement, safety and security during marine events and aids to navigation. Working closely with the District's Response and Prevention Divisions, ASCC and the District's five Sector field units, the Operations and Resources Planning staff balances the resource demands of all Coast Guard Missions within the constrained "budget" of cutter, boat and aircraft hours. Additionally, this staff serves as program manager for 30 District cutters ranging from 65-feet to 225-feet, providing advocacy, mentoring and oversight.

UNITS: In addition to the five sectors within the district, D1 is home to various one-of-a-kind units including, International Ice Patrol Operations Center in Groton, CT, the U.S. Coast Guard Academy in New London, CT., and the Research and Development Center in Groton, CT.
